

Poetry Series

Elizabeth Caitson
- poems -

Publication Date:
2015

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Elizabeth Caitson(03/02/01)

A Poets Debt

These empty words
must fill some void
must pay to fill this empty Heart but God no words could pay enough to fix this self- afflicted broken heart.

Elizabeth Caitson

Relapse

I think of you
even though I shouldn't I think of you
in times of weakness times when my heart is filled with more lassitude than love.
Times when the World seems bright,
you allow me to see the gloom.
My dear I want to be the sun,
but with you I'm the moon.

Elizabeth Caitson

Untitled

It's the dark moments like this when my heads in my chest that the demons speak so softly of the promises never kept.

Elizabeth Caitson