

Poetry Series

Rohit Poddar
- poems -

Publication Date:
2017

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Rohit Poddar(22-01-1998)

Hidden Soul

Sometimes, somewhere in this lost world which we say we know you sit down in a dark lost corner with a heavy heart seeking for condolence looking at the sun say bye moons out to shine its light upon your soul peacefully the birds find their way into the evergreens of the jungle.
Closing your eyes, dieing to survive one hope thats all you got to make your dreams come true.

You say I am a dreamer afraid to look into reality but the whole world is conspiring against your heart.
You open your eyes wishing to find faith walking into the directions leading to no dimensions admiring the winds how swiftly it blows, listen close its got something to say perhaps, i am terrified to know winds trying to show how it has no shape and no colour yet so powerful and bold just lie your soul.

Rohit Poddar

One Life

Don't wait for the sun to rise nor for the moon to shine, let the winds blow
seasons come and go,
One life, one ride.

Let the bells rings
let people come and go.
Write a song, sing along dance in the raining sky no reasons to ask. Why?

Humm with the birds sleep with the dogs.
Do things you never thought life would give.
Pick a guitar, play out loud no matter how it sounds, put your heart in it, and ignite with the beat.

wake up leaving the screens who says you need somebody to do things you need to.
Climb the highest mountain swim the deepest sea see the snows glitter and fish bubble do want you want to cause you only got,
One life, One ride.

Rohit Poddar

True Freedom

We possessed no possessions, and solved more problems than statues ever did.
None died of hunger but survived on love and unity.

There are no boundaries, nothing to die for a 'Thing' made no difference but only being happy did.

There is no place to go, but heaven there is nothing to cry for and no agonies too.
Happiness being the only goal.

A world full of peace living for each other cared for one another.

Rohit Poddar