

Poetry Series

Rowena Roque
- poems -

Publication Date:
2017

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Rowena Roque()

Ends

A story ends
and so life
A clock ticks
and so time
A music stops
and so the song Everything ends
Everyone goes
and so we must go Find ways not just hope for it won't come in your toe

Everything ends
Everyone goes
live life on its full
For it won't come again not when you were born like the sun that shines in the morn bright as the beam of the moon

We live life for a reason we're not just created like a toy that impresses a child in coy Ends in mind is all not just a mere call in the night when you fall a sound sleep
like a ship
on the vast sea
where space is all but free that doesn't sound like spree

but anyway,
ends call for me
but not literally though I knew it would eventually life ends people goes and so be free

live as if it will your last for it ends eventually.

Rowena Roque

From Afar...

You were the brightest star on gleam
And I was dark in the night
You were living a dream
While mine was lurking out of sight

Living fame and glittered limelight Shining as the beam of moonlight Adored by many and so did I Yet there can't be You and I

I may remain forever unknown
But my dream can't be blown Though you're someone I can't own I'll treasure this love unknown

You were like that of star
I wish I could catch and put in jar Though that's a dream too far My Star, I am loving you From Afar...

Rowena Roque