

Poetry Series

stephanie dirks
- poems -

Publication Date:
2009

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

stephanie dirks()

Have You Ever

Have you ever caught yourself falling someone you know you can't have
Have you ever tried falling out of love and never confessing it
Have you ever had to tell your heart no because of fear
Have you ever had to feel that misery

All my life I never imagined love wouldn't hurt that bad
That I would never have to deny my heart what it feels is right
All I ever wanted was a love like cinderella
The happily ever after

All I can do is forget him
All I am able to do is confess this love to myself
Keep this love bottled up forever in the dark
And keep this heart of mine under lock and key

I wonder how he would act if he only knew
This deep love I feel for him
I can never let him know
For I fear that I would lose everything

He's my whole world
My entire life
He doesn't know
To save everything

I must forget it all
Pretend these feelings were never here
But I could still lose everything
Because to save my heart I must forever leave

stephanie dirks

Silent Love

You have my mind
Wrapped in thoughts of you
You hold my heart
In the palm of your hand

My soul has been set afire
An eternal flame for only you
My hands reach out
Only for your love

You have captured my spirit in you
Forever locked away
My heart cries out a love
Knowing this aint right

My mind believes
This could never work
But this feeling in my heart
It has to be right

Suffering in the silence
I wait for you
To hear the song
The song of my eternal love

stephanie dirks