

Poetry Series

steve khawand
- poems -

Publication Date:
2017

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

steve khawand()

Do You?

I'm ready for what life might bring let my words go through the world and sing that no distance has ever brought me to fail I always stayed still when I lost my trail.
I know what I want and I hope I'd get there soon and I'd reach the sun and Moon all to see what I want to be life gave me what I needed to see but now I need to know if anyone likes to go and find the mysteries we needed to know to a place so far away where I'll be young, that's how I will stay

steve khawand

Life Is More Than Just Time

life takes to where we want to go whatever it gives us we don't know life is not a camera and a light it'd be defeating your highest fright it's how we know that we're alive when we fly high then go through a dive life is more than just spending time it's not even committing a crime it's the beam of light for us to go through it's the story of us, starting from me towards all of you let's go on this journey together to get to know each other better

steve khawand

Like A Parachute

you will always break my fall and I know you would never hesitate and call when I'm standing at the edge, I start doubting what is to come after till you catch me and hold me because you always help me with a laughter I know you from your caring heart, from that smile you never lose how can I forget you? I can never imagine who else I would choose to go with me on this journey that can only happen once you will always believe in me, unlike others who might see me as a dunce you're my parachute, the one that helps me not to break it's much safer when you get the least to be at stake. my friend, you are my safe place, keep me there I beg you because without friendship, what is the point of anything I do?

steve khawand